No novel of this generation has had such extraordinary effect as Mr. Sinclair's tremendous story,

THE JUNGLE

which started the whole meat inspection excitement. But it's far more than an indictment. The London Spectator says it "leaves an indelible impression on the mind of the reader," and adds that the "realistic detail is combined with a sense of the picturesque and a real instinct for racial characterization," giving a "touch of rude poetry to a sombre recital."

Reasons enough these for the printing of 33,700 since June first.

DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS'SNew Novel

David Graham Phillips is the novelist of social democracy in America. In "The Fortune Hunter" he has written an idyl of the East Side. His heroine is Hilda, the belle and catch of Avenue A, and all his characters but one are plain people, the "society of the real New York, the three and a half million who work hard and live plainly, whose ideals center about the hearth."

THE FORTUNE HUNTER

It is all done so gracefully and unpretentiously, with so rich a humor and so keen a sympathy, that the reader is completely charmed. It puts him in a smiling mood and leaves him possessed of the blessed secret of happiness.

The Builders

By WILLIS GEORGE EMERSON

Author of "Buell Hampton"

A virile story of mining and town building in the West. The qualities which made "Buell Hampton" popular are found in the new book, and its success is certain. No living novelist equals Emerson in skillful and faithful portrayals of life in the Western mountain region, where he has spent years in prominent activities.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY, -:- PHILADELPHIA

READY JULY 15

A New Illustrated Edition of Major John
Richardson's Famous Old Romance

WACOUSTA

A Tale of the Pontiac Conspiracy

This fine old story is little known to the present generation, although it is really a classic. Major Richardson flourished early in the 19th century, and was accounted one of the most graphic writers of his day. It is most appropriate that the re-issue should be brought out by a firm that has been so successful in the field of romances of pioneer days.

The conspiracy of this wily and treacherous warrior to possess himself of the various posts held by the English in the West, and which was foiled of complete success only by the commandant at Detroit being forewarned, it is said, by a beautiful Indian girl for whom an officer of the garrison had formed an attachment, gives the groundwork for a story replete with romantic and thrilling situations, vivid descriptive passages, and rapid action.

A. C. McCLURG & CO., Publishers

Winston Churchill's New Novel

CONISTON

The critics call it

"first of all a delightful love-story, vigorous, vibrant and realistic."

CONISTON

"is a love-story of the sort that warms the cockles of the heart, arouses every laggard and latent impulse of sympathy, and lends enthusiasm to fancy. . . . Its sentiment is so true, its humor so native and abiding and its grip on the eternal verities so strong, that its characters seem to live and move in the immediate present."

CONISTON

"is one of the most sympathetically devised, brilliantly written and dramatically effective episodes heretofore presented in an American work of fiction. . . . With amazing constructive skill and superb literary art . . . its alluring and powerful demonstration of human nature glows and flashes through the pages of this long narrative."

CONISTON

"is by long odds the best, the most important and most significant novel that has proceeded from Mr. Churchill's pen—if it be not, indeed, the best American novel yet brought to public notice and attention. . . . So artistically and carefully wrought, preserved from serial desecration and offered in a period of amazing dearth of high-class imaginative literature, it should need no encomiums to vindicate its title to high popular favor."

CONISTON

"is the great novel of the year"

NOTES IN SEASON.

DANA ESTES & Co. will publish at once "Studies in Character," a volume of essays by the late Carol Norton, C.S.D.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have decided to publish immediately "Castles and Chateaux of Old Touraine and the Loire Country," by "Francis Miltoun" and Miss Blanche McManus.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish on the 25th inst. a novel for the Masonic fraternity entitled "The Rose Croix," by Dr. David Tod Gilliam. The story dates back some seventy years, and has for its hero a young West Pointer and as heroine the daughter of the Mexican minister.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. have a cheerful book for summer reading in "Humor of Bulls and Blunders," compiled by Marshall Brown, compiler of "Wit and Humor of Well-Known Quotations," who has brought together in this book comical "breaks" of all kinds that give ludicrous turns to words and situations. They have also ready in the Beacon Biographies an intimate biography of John Fiske by a lifelong friend, Thomas Sergeant Perry.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 27th inst. popular editions of Mary Johnston's "To Have and to Hold," and of F. Hopkinson Smith's "Caleb West, Master Diver." Both works are illustrated and neatly bound in cloth. They have in preparation "The Practice of Diplomacy," a new book by the Hon. J. W. Foster, whom the Chinese have selected as their delegate at the second Hague Conference to be held in May, 1907.

THE DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready "The Philosophy of Rest," by E. A. Fletcher, which will be found helpful to those who would find rest from the nerve-racking rush of the present-day life. They call attention to five books that should have a wide circle of readers, namely, "Cupid's Proverbs," an attractive wedding gift, designed by Albertine Randall Wheelan; "The Biography of Our Baby," with verses by Edmund Vance Cooke and designs by Bessie Collins Pease, and "Mother Stork's Baby Book," also designed by Miss Pease, with verses by Robert Louis Stevenson and Eugene Field, two books that will find favor with a father or mother; and two books for the bride, "What to Have for Dinner," by Fannie Merritt Farmer, and "What to Have for Luncheon," by Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will publish on July 15 an illustrated edition of Major John Richardson's famous old romance, "Wacousta," a tale of the Pontiac Conspiracy. This story, which is practically unknown to the present generation, had a great vogue when first published in London, in 1832. Five separate issues of the book were brought out in London, Philadelphia, New York and Montreal. One issue was entitled "The Prophecy, or, Wacousta," and a sequel, also by Major Richardson, was published in New York, in 1851, under the title of "Matilda Montgomerie, or, the Prophecy Fulfilled." The story deals particularly with the defeat of Pontiac, the wily chief of the Ottawa Indians, in his attempt, in 1763, to possess himself of the fort at Detroit. Major Richardson was a native of British America. He was made a prisoner at the battle of the Thames, and subsequently served in Spain. He resided for several years in Paris, where he wrote "Ecarté, or the Saloons of Paris," and then returned to America, residing first in Canada and then in New York, where he died.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fc. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Designed for the general reader who may wish to know with exactness what Greek tragedies were like, and may be interested in the questions dealt with in the introduction and notes; and for students in educational institutions. Méropé is elaborately annotated; the notes to the "Electra" are chiefly confined to mythological allusions.

Bangs, J: Kendrick. R. Holmes & Co.: being the remarkable adventures of Raffles Holmes, Esq., detective and amateur cracksmen by birth; il. by Sydney Adamson. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [Je.] c. 6+231 p. S. cl., †$1.25.

Raffles Holmes, the hero, is the son of Sherlock Holmes, and grandson of the great detective "Raffles." Jenkins, his companion, is a literary gentleman. The two partners engage in a series of laughable adventures and amass a large fortune. Ludicrous situations follow in rapid succession, and Mr. Bangs indulges in much humor and satire on modern ways of "doing things."

Author is Regius Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the University of Oxford. The lectures combined are essays on the development of the church. They refer to three great moments: the making of the mediæval system; the decay of the mediæval system; and the beginnings of modern Christianity. The great factors in true development the writer holds to be the Scripture and intelligence. He asks which are the divine laws and which the ecclesiastical by-laws that now rule the church, and the lectures are an attempt to loosen this knot of all the present difficulties of the church.

Danby, Frank, [pseud. for Mrs. Julia Frankau.] The Sphinx's lawyer. N. Y., F: A. Stokes Co., [1906. My.] c. 5+376 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A novel written to prove "that the past never dies, that the mortgage placed by conduct, even by circumstance, upon character, is one that will never be entirely paid off." The Sphinx, a worldly woman, married to a genius imprisoned for crime of unmentionable kind, made a friend of the lawyer who had arraigned the prison management that led to the criminal's early death. The lawyer married a good woman, and the story gives psychological dissertations on her growth in world knowledge. The gist of the book is: "plead for criminals."

Deeping, G: Warwick. Bess of the woods. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [Je.] c. 4+406 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of smugglers and buried treasure in the days of wigs and wine-drinking nobles in the early part of the eighteenth century. Bess lived to be twenty-two among people who had adopted her and who lived a wild life in the woods of a baronet's estate. The heir of the Hardacres rescues her from a brute, to whom she has been married. The secret of her life is found among buried treasure in the woods. All ends happily, but at times the trials of Bess seem hopeless. Pistols and swords are freely used to bring about events.

Discrepant world (A): being an essay in fiction by the author of "Through spectacles of feeling," "The haggard side." N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 2+223 p. D. cl., $2.

A novel about Gaythorn, a little Scottish hamlet, in the beginning of the nineteenth century. The laying of a railroad was the great cause for bringing together its different inert inhabitants. The lord of the soil, his ne'er-do-well son, a few old ladies, a pretty seamstress, and the enterprising schemer who wants the benefits of the railroad for the town are the chief characters. Love, as usual, spoils the business interests.

Dole, Nathan Haskell. The building of the organ. [Also] Onward: two symphonic poems. N. Y., Moffat, Yard & Co., 1906. c. '04, '06. 5+130 p. O. cl., $1.25 net.

Two poems written to promote universal peace on earth. The first poem was first written as the basis of a musical composition, to be called "The cathedral," the text to be selected from the work. "Onward" was in part used as the poem delivered before the Tufts College chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Society in June, 1904. The two poems first appeared in a volume, privately printed, under the title "Peace and progress." This was dedicated to Andrew Carnegie.

Du Bois, Jean Antoine, Abbé. Hindu manners, customs and ceremonies; tr. from the author's later French ms. and ed., with notes, corrections and biography, by H: K. The author gives a review of the Peloponnesian war, the Punic wars, Actium and Lepanto, the Spanish Armada, and the Russo-Japanese war. He refutes many of the generally held ideas about the special value of the quality and quantity of ships through which wars are won. He holds that above and beyond all the strength of sea-power is the one rule proved by all history that the victor is always "the fittest to win." He ranks personality of the leader which can inspire personality in his subordinates beyond all the perfection of build and all the quantity of the soulless material of which ships consist.

- Stevens, N. M. Studies in the germ cells of aphids. Wash., D. C., Carnegie Institution of Washington, 1906. [My.] 29 p. il. O.

(Carnegie Institution of Washington, publication.) pap., 25 c.

Aphids are plant-house or green-house flies which are marvellously prolific and are destructive by sapping the plants. This study is specially undertaken in the hope of throwing more light on sex determination, and the descriptive part of the paper is followed by a further discussion of the bearing of the facts recorded on that problem.

Stimson, F: Jesup, ["J. S., of Dale," pseud.] In cure of her soul. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. [Je.] c. 4+612 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A young Southerner married a careless girl and set to work to make a name as lawyer. He had $8000 a year, and his wife lived a gay life in New York and Newport. They grew apart. An old major preached the husband some old-fashioned methods of controlling his wife; a young woman reformer also tried to influence his home. The story gives a startling picture of modern marriage but contains an earnest plea against divorce.

Van Vorst, Marie. The sin of George Warrenner. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. c. '05, '06. 316 p. D. cl., $1.50.

George Warrenner, a New York clerk for successful brokers, lived with his young wife in a Jersey suburb. He loved her and loved his home, but led a hum-drum life and took his wife's happiness for granted. The "other man" appeared, a rich idle artist. Mrs. Warrenner became restless, dissatisfied, grew extravagant, ran her husband into debt, neglected him and led a wholly selfish life. George Warrenner speculated and lost. When both were sadder and wiser they learned the essentials of married happiness.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 23, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

"RE-BINDS" AND CHEAP EDITIONS.

THE question of issuing cheap cloth-bound editions of copyright fiction, which has agitated booksellers throughout the country for the past six months, seems to be taking care of itself, as it was bound to do. While a cheap edition of any book will always have a field of its own, it may become a menace to the original edition if put out too soon after its first publication. It is conceivable that, under certain circumstances, a cheap paper-bound edition and a more expensive edition of a new work of fiction might be put out simultaneously without harm; but when a cheap edition, bound in cloth, which so closely imitates the original work in every respect that it cannot be distinguished from it except by referring to the imprint, is brought out within a few months after the first publication is marketed, it is self-evident that the sale of the original edition must suffer, and that the bookseller who has stocked up with it is in danger of losing by his enterprise. This is actually what has happened, and the warning from a large number of the trade has impressed the publisher to such an extent that an agreement has been reached not to bring out such editions in the future in less time than two years.

The so-called "re-binds," that is, cheap editions bound in cloth, instead of in paper, have had great attraction for certain publishers and booksellers. The publisher, who considered that he had exhausted the market for a new novel, was easily persuaded to let out at a fair rental the plates of the book which he considered as "dead wood." The bookseller, especially the bookseller in the smaller communities, who carries but little stock, found them attractive "leaders," and, on the whole, more profitable than the regular $1.50 editions of fiction. Inasmuch as the books were widely known and already extensively advertised at $1.50, his offer to sell them at fifty cents or less was bound to attract more custom to his store than any other advertising would be likely to do. In fact, what helped the small dealer in out-of-the-way places was the very thing that hurt his colleague in the larger centres. Having no stock of the higher-priced book, the smaller dealer did not feel the competition the fifty cent book was making for the $1.50 book with which his more enterprising colleague had more or less liberally stocked his shelves. As in most cases it takes a bookseller from six months to a year to work off the "remainder" of his stock of new fiction, it is self-evident that, when a new edition at fifty cents, identical in most respects with the original edition at $1.50, is brought out within six or seven months after its first publication, the bookseller must face a loss of at least sixteen cents on every copy of the original edition that remains unsold, and that, unless he is assured of a larger margin of time in which to work off his stock, he will not be so enterprising in the future in stocking up with $1.50 fiction.

APROPOS of the intentions of the publishers of the "re-bind" editions—there are at least four of them—it is fair to say that, realizing that there is a large market for cheap books, these firms entered the field in the hope of gleaning more carefully than was possible for the larger reapers, rather than to disturb or demoralize the booktrade. It was once said by a clever after-dinner speaker that there is a certain small class of bookbuyers in the United States who will buy a book at any price; that there is a larger class who will buy books at a certain price; and that there is an unnumbered class who will buy books if the price is within their means. That is, there are some people to whom the price of a book is no object, and who would rather pay $1000 a volume for a book that is exclusive than $10 for a book published in unlimited numbers. Then there is a class to whom books are a necessity, who will make a sacrifice to obtain the book they need even if it be so costly as $10 or $15. Besides these there is that large class of readers, numbering, possibly, millions, who will buy books, no matter how they are gotten up, if the price is within their means. To this class a fifty cent cloth-bound copyright book represents a "large value," and it is at this class that the "re-binder" is aiming, and thus far, according to all reports, he has been most successful. For example, a popular work of fiction that has sold steadily for nearly forty years, and which is, therefore, within a few years of becoming public property, has been marketed by one of these concerns in an edition of 100,000 in less than six months. Other books, even those of a more solid character than fiction, have been disposed of in like quantities, though in a longer period of time. One of these firms of "re-binders" has six travellers on the road almost all the year round. Being unhampered by considerations of the timeliness of their lines, their travellers can afford to cover the field more deliberately and more thoroughly than the travellers of houses who must market their output within a certain time can cover it. They are enabled, moreover, to take the time to canvass the moribund bookseller in small out-of-the-way localities, on whom the traveller for the larger houses cannot afford to waste time, to instruct him in selling his lines, and thereby, also, to stimulate him to devoting more time to the higher-priced books by the author whose cheaper editions they are exploiting. In this way, while making a harvest for themselves, they are doing pioneer work for the whole trade. This has been so speedily recognized by some publishing houses that they have been tempted often against the counsel of the "re-binders," to anticipate the cheaper market for some of their books, with the result that they have endangered their own interests as well as those of that part of their constituency upon whom they must after all depend for the recouping of their first and largest outlay. But, as we have already noted, the remedy has been provided, and hereafter, it is to be hoped, these matters will be better ordered. So far as the very reasonable and justifiable demand of the public for cheap editions of good new books is concerned that can be met almost continuously with reprints of books the demand for which in the original editions may be considered as having been fully met. Indeed, never before in the history of the book-trade have so many provisions been made as now for furnishing English-speaking readers with the very cream of literature, in the most attractive form, at approximately one-third the price of a new work of fiction.

THESE recent departures in issuing cheap editions of new copyright fiction have again raised the question whether on the whole it were not better policy to bring the price of all new fiction down to a dollar the volume, and to hold the price rigorously to that figure, than to issue it at a nominal price which but few dealers throughout the country expect to maintain, and the invidious comparison between which and the actual selling price has always hurt and will continue to hurt the booktrade in its dealings with the public. It will hardly be possible to force the actual selling price of fiction up to $1.25 net, as some members of the trade seem to think feasible. There are too many circumstances opposed to such a course, not the least of which is the fact that the trade for twenty years or longer has so strenuously helped to educate the public into the belief that it could buy $1.50 fiction at almost any price, down to 78 cents. Even in the handling of the "re-binds" and some of the recent cheap editions of standard works, such as the Everyman's Library, a number of the booktrade were betrayed into giving the public another object lesson of their weakness by cutting the price from fifty cents down to as low as thirty-five cents, or as close to the net wholesale price as an article can be cut without absolutely losing money in handling it. Nevertheless, we are confident that a rearrangement of the methods of publishing and selling fiction and a reduction of its price to a figure at which it can be held, with a living wage for the bookseller, would do much to strengthen the trade not only within its own ranks but also in the estimation of the book-buying public.

As we go to press information reaches us that a decision has been handed down by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the two cases brought respectively by the Bobbs-Merrill Company and Charles Scribner's Sons against Macy's for infringing their rights in copyright books by selling them at less than contract prices. The decision, written by Judge Townsend, though in Macy's favor, is not, we understand, in line with the decision of Judge Ray, who a year ago refused the relief asked for by both complainants. In the absence of a copy of the decision, which has been unavoidably delayed, we must defer comment and the decision itself until another issue. There remains now but one higher tribunal to review the case, and that is the Supreme Court of the United States, to which in all probability it will be carried.

CONVENTION OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF STATIONERS.

THE second convention of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers was opened at the Hotel Astor in New York City on the morning of June 18 by the registration of upwards of three hundred delegates and their guests. On the following day the association settled down to business, the session being opened by the Rev. Mr. Eckman. The Hon. Mr. Goodwin, of the Board of Aldermen, then addressed the association, offering its members the freedom of the city. Theodore L. C. Gerry, who acted as master of ceremonies, next welcomed the association, and was followed by the president of the association, Mr. Schlener, who responded to the addresses of welcome, and then called for the reports of the standing committees.

The committees who reported were those on Blank Books, Office Furniture, Glassware, Pens and Pencils, Inks and Mucilage, Leather Goods, Miscellaneous Goods, and Prices.

The secretary's report was presented by R. J. Smith, who reported on the club membership of the association as follows:

CLUB MEMBERS.

Boston Stationers Association.....	47
Chicago Stationers Association.....	46
Stationers Club of Cincinnati.....	15
Cleveland Booksellers & Stationers Association..	12
Stationers Club of Denver.....	12
Minneapolis Stationers Association.....	10
Stationers Club of New Orleans.....	17
Stationers Association of New York City.....	93
Stationers Board of Trade of New York City..	114
Omaha Stationers Association.....	10
Philadelphia Stationers Association.....	23
Pittsburg Booksellers & Stationers Association..	13
St. Louis Stationers Club.....	37
St. Paul Stationers Association.....	15
Stationers Club of Toledo.....	6
Baltimore Stationers Association.....	23
Individual Members.....	74

The Baltimore Stationers Association of twenty-three members has been organized during the past month. The Boston Stationers Association has increased its membership by five; Stationers Club of Cincinnati, 11; Philadelphia Association, 2; St. Paul Association, 1.

Notwithstanding the fact that two individual members have become affiliated with the local associations of their respective cities, nineteen have been added to the individual membership list.

Abner K. Pratt, the treasurer, reported receipts $1177.72 and expenditures as $649.56, leaving a balance in the treasury of $528.16.

After the Committee on Credentials offered its report, the Committee on Location recommended that the next annual convention be held in St. Paul, Minn., June 10 to 13. Fletcher B. Gibbs, ex-president of the association, then delivered an excellent address on organization of local associations and the feasibility of having special organizers, which the association voted to print in pamphlet form. The convention then adjourned to meet on June 20 at 9:30 A.M.

In the evening the delegates and visitors were treated to a trip to Coney Island, a large number availing themselves of the opportunity to visit this popular resort. The trip down was by boat and the return by rail. After exhausting the sights the delegates and their guests had dinner in Luna Park.

The third session of the convention was opened promptly at 10:30 A.M. Wednesday, with President Schlener in the chair. After the report of the Committee on Miscellaneous Items had been read by F. O. Mittag, there were ten-minute talks on "What Has My Local Association Accomplished," by Charles H. Mann, of Philadelphia, Abner K. Pratt of Boston, Edwin R. Williams of Minneapolis, Charles E. Moyer of Omaha, and James T. Lacey of St. Louis. The keynote of these talks was struck by Mr. Williams, who said in regard to regulating prices: "We don't propose anything that will violate any law, but we do believe that prices can be legitimately regulated. In my own town, for instance, before the establishment of the local stationers' association, the stationers spent more time 'knocking' one another than they did in 'boosting' their own business."

The Committee on Nominations then submitted the following candidates:

President, Charles H. Mann, of Wm. Mann & Co., Philadelphia.

First Vice-President, Frank B. Towne, of the National Blank Book Company, Holyoke, Mass.

Second Vice-President, D. S. Sperry, of Brown, Treacy & Sperry, St. Paul, Minn.

Third Vice-President, Millington Lockwood, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Treasurer, Abner K. Pratt, of J. L. Fairbanks & Co., Boston, Mass.

Auditor, Robert D. Patterson, of Buxton, Skinner & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Secretary, Charles H. Marshall, of Wm. Hoskins Company, Philadelphia, Pa.

After a motion to cast one ballot for the candidates whose names were submitted the name of Theodore L. C. Gerry was also put in nomination for president, and then ensued a long debate as to who had the right to vote. It was finally decided to postpone the election and other business until Thursday morning.

The delegates and a large number of their guests participated in a sight-seeing auto trip around the upper part of New York in the afternoon. The start was made at 2:30 o'clock, and after an hour and a half of a very pleasant trip up Fifth Avenue, through Central Park, around Cathedral Heights and down Riverside Drive, the return was made to the hotel by way of Broadway. The procession was led by the new auto of Bill Smith, of the L. E. Waterman Company, which contained the members of the entertainment committee.

The fourth session of the convention began at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning. After preliminary business had been disposed of the convention proceeded to elect officers. The election for president resulted in the choice of Charles H. Mann, who received sixty-six votes to Mr. Gerry's twenty-five votes. The secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for the remaining officers as given above. Before adjourning for luncheon the association listened to an address by Emerson Harris on "What is the Province of the Trade Paper?"

In the afternoon a short session was held to dispose of unfinished business.

The banquet at the Hotel Astor, in the evening, which closed the convention, was attended by nearly four hundred persons. Among the speakers were Admiral Coghlan, U. S. N., at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, the Rev. George B. Eckman and Ballington Booth. "Our motto in these days," said the Admiral, "should be to protect our merchant trade. We are strengthening our navy not alone to prepare for war, but quite as much to keep peace." Ballington Booth made an appeal for equity and justice in business dealing. "Let us have men," he said, "who will keep as far as possible from the edge of trickery and queer dealings. Perseverance, hold-on-ism, and brotherhood are the backbone of business life," said General Booth.

One of the features of the convention was the convention daily issued with characteristic enterprise by Geyer's Stationer, to which we are indebted for our report. Each number contained in full a report of the proceedings and speeches of the preceding day. Geyer's Stationer also distributed as a souvenir a large half-tone engraving of a group of the National Association officers.

HEARINGS ON THE NEW COPYRIGHT BILL.

ALTHOUGH the hearings on the copyright revision bill have closed for the recess of Congress, it is deemed desirable by those interested in the measure that the discussion may go on by correspondence to the copyright office in the Library of Congress. Records are to be kept of this discussion for the benefit of the legislators. To promote this discussion, Librarian Putnam on the 21st inst. issued the following memorandum with reference to the matter:

The hearings by the two Committees on Patents sitting as a joint committee, which were begun on June 6, and concluded on June 9, were preliminary merely. The chairman of the House committee announced that his committee would be prepared to resume hearings after the first Monday in December. The Senate committee has authority to sit during the recess, but the chairman indicates that there is no possibility of any hearings during the summer and no probability of hearings prior to the beginning of the next session. The Senate committee has passed the following resolution, which it has instructed me to communicate as widely as possible to the public:

"Pending further hearings upon the bill the Register of Copyrights is requested to keep record of the discussion of its provisions; and to receive, in behalf of the committee as well as of the copyright office, suggestions for its amendment, whether in form or substance; and to digest these also, for convenient consideration by the committee."

CANADA RAISES POSTAGE ON OUR MAGAZINES.

CANADA has raised the mail rate on about eighty-three magazines published in the United States. No official reason is given, but it is generally understood that the cause for the decree of one cent for two ounces, stamps to be affixed, is due to the mail-order advertisements in the periodicals. The Canadian merchants feel that the trade which otherwise would come to them is given to dealers in the United States. Among the magazines to have the postage raised are

New Idea, Woman's Magazine, Home Magazine, New Era Monthly, Delineator, Designer, All-Story Magazine, Argosy Magazine, Woman's Home Companion and Good Literature.

CANADIAN TAX ON COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

REGARDING a further amendment to the sliding scale tax on foreign commercial travellers doing business in the Province of Quebec, in the form of a six-months' license, the Canadian Bookseller and Stationer says:

"The sliding scale which took effect last March provided for the abandonment of the straight three hundred dollars yearly tax on all foreign travellers except those soliciting for liquor firms, and the substitution of a tax of one hundred dollars yearly on travellers selling only to the wholesale trade, two hundred dollars for those calling upon both wholesale and retail, and four hundred dollars for those selling consumers. The six months' privilege, in effect since May 1, provides for a license from 1st of May to 1st of November, or from 1st of November until the 1st of May following, by paying one-half the amount of the full yearly tax. Thus a traveller for a firm outside of Canada calling on the wholesale trade in the Province of Quebec, instead of paying $100 pays only $50 for a six months' license, and a traveller calling upon wholesale and retail pays $100, while one selling consumers pays $200, instead of $200 and $400 respectively.

"This latter provision is decidedly more equitable, as it practically cuts in half the obnoxious tax. To avoid taking out more than a six months' license foreign travellers must arrange their trips so as not to overlap the dates mentioned. Thus a traveller might enter the province in October and stay after the 1st of November, which would necessitate him securing another license good until the 1st of May following. . . . While the principle of the tax is in restraint of trade, the amendment which really halves the tax has been received with favor, because it points in a measure to the final repeal of this revenue-making tax.

"Foreign commercial travellers still make strenuous objections to the tax, but the Provincial Revenue Department is closely watching its collection, and evasions, which were at first effected, are now impossible. When interviewed in Montreal, the collector of Quebec provincial revenue outlined clearly the exact interpretation of many dubious points. For instance, a firm outside of Canada desiring to send a traveller to work the Province of Quebec, to avoid paying the tax must have a bona fide place of business in the province at some centre where stock is carried and books kept. A favorite form of evasion, which is useless in this respect, is for a foreign firm to establish an agent in either Montreal or Quebec. While the resident agent has not to take out a license, a traveller from the headquarters of the firm, or any of its foreign branch offices, coming to the province to call on the trade with the agent, must pay the tax.

COMMUNICATIONS.

FICTION AT NET PRICE.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I read with great interest what Mr. Clarke had to say about discounts, printed in your issue of June 2, and am entirely in accord with his contention that the publisher should allow the bookseller a "living" discount. I trust that before long the American Publishers' Association will come to an agreement to publish fiction at a net price of $1.15, with discounts that will give the bookseller a profit.

I shall publish in the fall a novel by a well-known writer whose last book had a large sale, and if an agreement has not been made when it is ready I shall issue it at $1.08 net, with discounts ranging from 30 per cent. to 35 per cent., according to quantity.

I should value Mr. Clarke's and other booksellers' opinion of this plan.

MITCHELL KENNERLEY.

116 EAST 28TH STREET, NEW YORK, June, 12, 1906.

OBITUARY NOTES.

KARL PROCHASKA, the pioneer publisher of cheap editions of the works of Goethe, Schiller and Lessing, died last month in Teschen, Austro-Hungary. Prochaska was born in Teschen, October 3, 1829, and in 1850 took charge of his grandfather's modest printing office and bookstore. Steadily the business was developed in every direction until it included a daily newspaper, Silesia, Die Militärischen Blätter, and a large list of scientific and standard and popular works.

EDWARD BIERSTADT, the well-known photographer, died in New York City on the 15th inst. Mr. Bierstadt was born in Solingen, Germany, on September 19, 1824. In boyhood he came to this country and lived in New Bedford, Mass., devoting himself chiefly to photography. Removing to New York, he was the first to introduce into the United States the process of printing photographs in permanent ink, invented by Joseph Albert, of Munich, which has since become widely known in illustrations for books and for commercial purposes.

HENRY OSCAR HOUGHTON, of the firm of Houghton, Mifflin & Company, died suddenly at his summer home in Swampscott, Mass., June 14, after a brief illness which developed into acute pneumonia. Mr. Houghton was the son and namesake of the founder of the Riverside Press, and was born in Cambridge, Mass., February 18, 1856. He was graduated at Harvard University in the class of 1877, and immediately entered the service of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., becoming subsequently a member of the firm. Since the death of his father, in 1895, he has devoted his attention to the manufacturing department of the business at Riverside, but he has found time also for much public service as well, though never holding public office. He was a prominent member of the Non-Partisan party in his native city, and an ex-president of the Cambridge Club and Citizens' Trade Association, as well as a member of the Colonial, University and other clubs. Mr. Houghton is survived by his wife, a daughter of Arthur Gilman, of Cambridge, and by three children—two daughters and a young son who bears his father's name.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

ANNA STRUNSKY, who collaborated with Jack London in writing "The Kempton-Wace Letters," published anonymously in 1903, was married a month ago to William English Walling, author of "The Social Campaign Book," etc., a wealthy New Yorker, and a grandson of William H. English, Democratic candidate for the Vice-presidency in 1880.

PEOPLE who are curious to know how books are written may be interested in learning that a large part of Rex Beach's latest book was written on trains to and from Chicago while the first chapters were being published serially and the author was, as he himself says, "scared to death" lest it should not be finished in time. The general plot of the story was carefully planned, the details added from a notebook crammed with the jottings of Mr. Beach's Alaskan experience. The author is a member of the firm of a large manufacturing business and secretary of the Chicago Athletic Association. He says he rather likes composing on the train, as the noise and hurry of car wheels tend to promote mental activity.

A MOVEMENT is afoot to purchase the house in Rome where the poet John Keats died. It is proposed to make the house a permanent memorial not only of Keats but of Shelley, who was later buried in the Protestant cemetery not far from where the body of the younger poet lies. The originators of the scheme, eight American writers in Italy, have raised $11,000 of the $21,000 needed to complete the purchase of the house on the Piazza di Spagna, at the foot of the picturesque Spanish steps, which are owned by France. It is thought needful to raise something more than the $21,000 asked for the house, in order to provide an endowment fund. The work is in charge of informal committees in Rome and in England, and in this country Robert Underwood Johnson is secretary of the American committee.

PERSONAL NOTES.

HENRY J. BERGER, who for the last four years has been editor of the American Stationer, has succeeded the late Channing Paine as editor of Geyer's Stationer.

GEORGE E. LIGHTCAP, for many years with the J. B. Lippincott Company, and now buyer for William F. Gable & Co., of Altoona, Pa., was in New York this week buying books and other holiday lines.

JAMES H. WEST, of the James H. West Company, of Boston, has been appointed to deliver the Phi Beta Kappa poem at Tufts Commencement. Mr. West's latest volume, "The Ninth Paradise," has been received with favor in England.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE BROOKLYN (N. Y.) PUBLIC LIBRARY has published a "List of Books on Greater New York." The list contains 726 short titles arranged under the following headings: New York Directories, 1786-1905; Brooklyn Directories, 1796-1905; Description and Travel, including manners and customs, etc.; History, including government and politics; Miscellaneous and New York in Fiction. (34 p. 32², p.p.)

THE BIBLIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY OF AMERICA has just brought out a volume of "Proceedings and Papers," forming volume 1, part 1, 1904-1905. The volume contains the Constitution and By-laws of the society; a list of the officers, council, committees and members; a historical sketch of the society, by Carl B. Roden; the proceedings, and the following papers: "Annual Address of the President, W. C. Lane;" "Bibliography of American Music," by O. G. Sonneck; "Bibliographies in Literary History," by E. P. Hammond; "Gaddesden's Rosa Anglica," by B. A. Finney; "Theory and History of Botanical Bibliography," by J. C. Bay; "Material for United States Naval History," by C. H. Lincoln; "In re a Bibliographical Institute," by A. G. S. Josephson; and "European Historians of the Turks," by A. L. P. Dennis. Appended to the volume is a department of Bibliographical Notes. The volume is handsomely printed in an edition limited to 300 copies. (106 p. 8², pap.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—John W. Luce & Co. are removing to 31 Beacon Street.

BOSTON, MASS.—George Reuschel, for many years identified with the foreign book business in this city, purchased the interest of J. G. Cupples and became an active member of the Schoenhof Book Co., 128 Tremont Street, on June 1. The firm now consists of Carl Schoenhof, Louis J. Jobin and Mr. Reuschel.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The creditors of the Henry B. Brown Book Company have filed a petition of involuntary bankruptcy against the concern. The liabilities are reported to be $20,000 and the assets about half the amount. Clark H. Timerman was appointed receiver.

FORT WAYNE, IND.—Siemon & Brother, booksellers, are reported in bankruptcy.

GRAND ISLAND, NEB.—J. F. Matthews, bookseller, has been succeeded by Starr & Allman.

GREENVILLE, MISS.—The George F. Arthur Company, booksellers, it is reported, have made an assignment.

INDIANOLA, IA.—Bailey & Wright, booksellers, have sold out to E. Wright.

LONGMONT, COL.—The Tiffany Company, booksellers, have been succeeded by C. A. Garrett.

MOBILE, ALA.—Frank Trueman, who has been with L. Hammel Dry Goods Co. for the past six years, will open in connection with C. V. Evans a book and stationery store at 213 Dauphin Street. The firm will be the Evans-Trueman Co. Their store is in the centre of the shopping district, and when opened for business will be one of the up-to-date stores in the South.

NEW YORK CITY.—James W. Christopher, who since 1870 conducted a book and magazine business at 47 Dey Street under the name of American and Foreign Book and Magazine Depot, has temporarily retired from business and removed to Auburn Mills, Hanover Co., Va. Mr. Christopher's sudden withdrawal from business was caused by the condemnation by the North River Tunnel Company of the building which he occupied, and his inability to obtain suitable quarters at a reasonable rent.

PARAGOULD, ARK.—Bledsoe & Logan, booksellers, have sold out to E. B. Wood.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

JOHN W. LUCE & Co. will publish in August "The Art of the Theatre."

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co. will publish in the fall an anthology by William Stanley Braithwaite, in the style of the "Oxford Book of Verse."

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish some time in August Justus Miles Forman's dramatic novel, "Buchanan's Wife," which has just completed publication in Harper's Weekly.

FOX, DUFFIELD & Co. will publish in the fall a new book by Captain Harry Graham, entitled "Misrepresentative Women," which will form a companion volume to his very successful book, "Misrepresentative Men." Captain Graham is honorary secretary of the Ellen Terry Jubilee Fund in London, which has reached a total of $44,000.

W. A. WILDE COMPANY will publish in the fall, as a companion volume to Edwin J. Houston's "The Young Prospector," a story by Miss Marion Ames Taggart, entitled "Six Girls and Bob, a story of patty pans and green fields." The patty pans are the symbol of the flat in which Bob and the girls live with their mother and practice the domestic virtues as assiduously as so many eighteenth century heroines.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week a novel which promises to be one of the successes of the summer. The book "The Colonel of the Red Huzzars," by John Reed Scott, a "dashing novel" of the present time, with a young American officer as a hero and a beautiful princess as a heroine. Two editions of the novel were sold before publication, and a third edition was on press at the time the book was brought out.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have in press a new book by Charles F. Dole, entitled "The Spirit of Democracy," a clear and searching study of popular government. Mr. Dole's at-titute is that of an impartial analyst in search of causes and possible remedies for certain present-day conditions, such as pauperism, suffrage, immigration, taxation, and party politics. His book appeared serially, during the winter, in the Springfield Republican, where it attracted wide attention.

MACMILLAN COMPANY have ready the long-expected "Coniston," Winston Churchill's new novel, which comes totally fresh to the reading public, as it has been preserved from serial desecration and is offered as a complete work of imaginative literary art. It is a love story, with scenes laid in New England in earlier days, bearing upon the fact that in American to-day "we are trying—whatever the cost—to regain the true axis established for us by the founders of the Republic."

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish shortly "The Happy Motorist," by Filson Young, author of the "Complete Motorist." Mr. Young's new book contains information on almost every difficulty that confronts the amateur automobilist. They have also nearly ready "The Amateur Cook," by K. Burrill and Annie M. Booth, an account of how a girl learned to cook, the recipes alternating with amusing conversations. There are over 500 recipes in the volume and many illustrations.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just brought out "Whistler and Others," a new volume by the well-known English art critic, Frederick Wedmore. Besides Whistler such topics are treated of as Goya, Romney, Lawrence, Ruskin, the rise of English water color, Etty, Raeburn, Paris and Fulleylove, the personality of Watts, and Venetian painting. The author's tone is purely critical. He makes a plea for more realism in modern painting; he believes in bringing out the beauties of nature, and the good, bad, and "indifferent" qualities of the people of to-day.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready a work on "Ocean and Inland Water Transportation," by Emory R. Johnson, a thorough and painstaking student of the subject, who presents a practical and reasonably exhaustive treatise on ocean and inland water as a means of transportation, its physical and economic limits, cost, tonnage and location. Mr. Johnson also takes up the matter of our merchant marine and its development, the advantages of the different interoceanic routes and the possibilities of the Panama canal, fortifying his statements with statistics, facsimile bills of lading and other illustrations.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have in preparation a volume of essays by the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, entitled "The Fortunes of the Republic," the third and concluding volume of "Christian Missions and Social Progress," a work upon which the Rev. Dr. James S. Dennis has spent twelve years of closest study and application, and which takes rank as the most important on the subject; also, "The Mosaic Law in Modern Life," by Dr. Cleland Boyd McAfee, of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Lafayette Presbyterian Church, a treatment of the Ten Commandments as applied to present-day life and conduct.

C. N. CASPAR COMPANY, Milwaukee, Wis., are publishing an "Official Quarter-Sectional Atlas of the City of Milwaukee," a work of great importance to the real estate interests of that city. The work is being drawn and compiled according to the records of the Register of Deeds at the Court House and at the office of the City Engineer of Milwaukee, under the direction of Charles J. Poetsch, City Engineer, by Edward F. Leidel, first assistant draftsman at the City Engineer's office. There will be 100 charts and an additional map of the city with a key to all plots, references, indices, etc., locating correctly all wards, divisions, blocks, lot numbers, house numbers, streets, etc., with their proper names within the present city limits.

JOHN LANE COMPANY have just published "Points of View," by L. F. Austin, edited, with a prefatory note, by Clarence Rook. Austin was a London journalist, "a popular Londoner of the West End," and a celebrated after-dinner speaker. He was a close friend of Sir Henry Irving, of whom he wrote a biography years ago over the pen-name of Frederic Daly. "Points of View" opens with an article on Sir Henry written by Mr. Austin a few days before his sudden death this year. The article was to have been published on the occasion of the late actor's visit to this country in 1906. Some of the other papers include "American Reticence, Our Mother Tongue," in which Mr. Austin expresses his mind about the spelling reform which Professor Brander Matthews has championed—"Bridge," "America at Oxford," etc. They are about to issue "Rachel Ray," the latest addition to their handy pocket edition of Trollope's novels. This book was written in 1863. Trollope had been invited by the well-known Dr. Norman Macleod, the editor of Good Words, to write a story for that magazine. Trollope endeavored to excuse himself on the ground that a novel from his pen would be unsuitable for those staid and decorous pages. But he eventually complied with Dr. Macleod's insistence by sending him "Rachel Ray." It was returned to the author with the intimation that it "would not do." But Trollope's later admirers have been less fastidious than the theologian-editor, and have counted "Rachel Ray" among his most brightly and amusingly told stories. They will publish on the 28th inst. a novel by Hermann Sudermann, "The Undying Past," one of Sudermann's strongest works, full of action and portraying characters of commanding individuality.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

 Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

THE ROSE CROIX

By David Tod Gilliam, M.D.

- ❧ A novel for the Masonic Fraternity.
- ❧ The Rose Croix, emblem of the Scottish Rite Masons, furnishes the mystery element to the tale.
- ❧ An ideal love story of some seventy years ago, which had its beginning in a chance meeting of the hero, a young West Pointer, and the heroine, daughter of the Mexican Minister, in the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington.
- ❧ Rapid action follows, but space forbids a detailed account. The story never halts; the interest never flags.

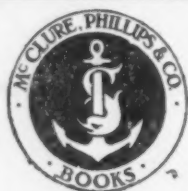

Large 12mo, emblematic cover design in three colors and gold, deckle edge, gilt top. Illustrated. $1.50

An Ideal Love Story

Lady Betty

By

C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON

Authors of "My Friend the Chauffeur"

Lady Betty is a captivating heroine. It is small wonder that every man within reach of a glance from her bright eyes straightway became her devoted admirer and slave. Every reader will do the same thing.

"She is a dear, delightful summer heroine, with a love story to reveal, which is fresh, naive and altogether charming, and the manner of its revealing is buoyant and gracious."—Chicago News.

Six illustrations in colors. $1.50

A New Red Saunders' Book

Red Saunders' Pets

By HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS

Author of "Red Saunders"

A prominent banker wrote us the other day: "I enjoyed many a hearty gurgle, chuckle and laugh last night in the office, on the ferry boat and at the club over Red Saunders' Pets. The illustrations are perfect."

This book is making the same sort of stir "Red Saunders" did. It is just the thing for the blues or the toothache.

Thirty illustrations by A. B. FROST. $1.25

A Comic Masterpiece

"Pigs is Pigs"

By

ELLIS PARKER BUTLER

A New American Humorist

This little book has made the biggest hit of the season. Everybody is reading and talking about it. We do an immense mail order business on this book, and can hardly supply the demands of the trade. Every copy you sell makes two or three more customers. The humor of "Pigs is Pigs" is catching, so is the sale of the book.

Five illustrations. Cloth, 50 cents

Stories of New York City Life

The Four Million

By O. HENRY

Author of "Cabbages and Kings"

This author knows human life, from the hobo to the magnate, better than any writer of to-day. These stories are great. They ring true and grip you hard.

"Too much can hardly be said in praise of the quality of these vital transcripts of city life. We perceive the sure touch of a gifted writer. The tales are remarkable for their simplicity, directness and force."

—St. Paul Dispatch.
